

OYU TOLGOI AT A GLANCE

- Oyu Tolgoi is the world's largest undeveloped gold and copper mine, located in the South Gobi desert in Mongolia, approximately 600km south of the Mongolian capital Ulaanbaatar. The site was discovered in 2001.
- Oyu Tolgoi is anticipated to produce 450,000 tonnes of copper and 330,000 ounces of gold per year after starting our operations in 2012, making it one of the largest gold and copper mines in the world.
- Oyu Tolgoi is a joint venture between the Government of Mongolia, and Ivanhoe Mines. Rio Tinto took on full management control of the project in December 2010, and has a majority shareholding in Ivanhoe Mines.

A MONGOLIAN WORKFORCE

- Some 90 per cent of the workforce at the mine will be Mongolian—approximately 3,000 Mongolian jobs. Mongolians hold senior management positions within Oyu Tolgoi. For every job created at Oyu Tolgoi, four extra jobs are expected to be created in related industries.
- Oyu Tolgoi is running the largest vocational training programme ever established in Mongolia. Many of the job skills are transferable—jobs will be created in I.T., environmental management, and accountancy.
- Oyu Tolgoi is investing 110 billion MNT (US$ 85 million) in this programme, and as part of this will construct two Mining Schools of Excellence and three vocational training centres in five cities across Mongolia.
- We have also established a graduate scholarship programme for 120 students at Mongolian universities and 30 Mongolian students at international universities.

OYU TOLGOI | FACTSHEET

- Rio Tinto and Ivanhoe Mines are jointly spending an average of 10.4 billion MNT (US$ 8 million) every day on goods and services, and have paid 335 billion MNT (US$ 250 million) in pre-tax profits to the Government of Mongolia.
- Of 12 infrastructure projects underway in the South Gobi, all are 100 per cent managed by Mongolian companies.
